Dear Doctor,

As you may know the Surgical Gastroenterology is a relatively new field which includes the surgery of upper gastrointestinal tract and Lower GI tract (including esophagus, stomach, small bowel, rectum, colon, pancreas and liver). This new field is also in close proximity with Key hole surgery and organ transplantation further widening its horizons. Hence the quick progress in the field has generated a need for highly skilled surgeons like Dr Patta Radhakrishna who can do advanced GI tract surgeries. These surgeons carry out advanced surgeries such as WHIPPLE & Procedure, total gastrectomy, total esophagectomy, bowel resections, liver resections etc easily displaying excellent results. Some of the routine procedures performed by them are:

Pancreas

- Drainage of acute pancreatitis
- Resection of neuroendocrine tumors –
Pancreatoduodenectomy and distal resection
- Chronic pancreatitis surgery with duct drainage
Frey's procedure

Gallbladder and bile ducts

- Surgery for gallbladder and bile duct stones
- Radical cholecystectomy
- Choledochal cyst surgery

Upper GI tract

- Surgeries for perforation and refractory bleed
- Resection of cancer of stomach and esophagus
